APOT - 1 Weighted Average 90th Percentile by LEMSA and Hosptial

* EMSA calculates the weighted average for a data set by multiplying the reported 90th percentile time for a hospital by the number of offloads to that facility (all transports hold the same value or "weight"). This value is then divided by the total count of offloads for that data set period to determine a single weighted average value. This approach gives EMSA the opportunity to compare APOT times within a jurisdiction (to calculate a single monthly APOT value for a LEMSA), across the state, or across multiple months and quarters.

* EMSA calculates the weighted average for a data set by multiplying the reported 90th percentile time for a hospital by the number of offloads to that facility (all transports hold the same value or "weight"). This value is then divided by the total count of offloads for that data set period to determine a single weighted average value. This approach gives EMSA the opportunity to compare APOT times within a jurisdiction (to calculate a single monthly APOT value for a LEMSA), across the state, or across multiple months and quarters.

* EMSA calculates the weighted average for a data set by multiplying the reported 90th percentile time for a hospital by the number of offloads to that facility (all transports hold the same value or "weight"). This value is then divided by the total count of offloads for that data set period to determine a single weighted average value. This approach gives EMSA the opportunity to compare APOT times within a jurisdiction (to calculate a single monthly APOT value for a LEMSA), across the state, or across multiple months and quarters.

APOT - 2 Offload Averages

*The Lowest Estimated Monthly Hours of Delay (20 Minutes or Greater) is calculated by multiplying the monthly average offload in each time interval (excluding <20 Minutes) by the lowest minute threshold of each interval.

The Sum of:
Monthly Average Offloads 20-60 Minutes multiplied by 20 minutes
Monthly Average Offloads 60-120 Minutes multiplied by 60 minutes
Monthly Average Offloads 120-180 Minutes multiplied by 120 minutes
Monthly Average Offloads >180 Minutes multiplied by 180 minutes.

The total number of minutes is then divided by 60 to determine the Lowest Estimated Monthly Hours of Delay. This is the most conservative estimate of the total hours of delay. This number can be multiplied by the LEMSA's ambulance unit/hour utilization rate to determine the cost to the prehospital setting (or Local EMS System) because of offload delays. A short survey with minimal LEMSA response/participation back in 2019 determined the average was roughly 155/hr.

*The Lowest Estimated Monthly Hours of Delay (20 Minutes or Greater) is calculated by multiplying the monthly average offload in each time interval (excluding <20 Minutes) by the lowest minute threshold of each interval.

The Sum of:
Monthly Average Offloads 20-60 Minutes multiplied by 20 minutes
Monthly Average Offloads 60-120 Minutes multiplied by 60 minutes
Monthly Average Offloads 120-180 Minutes multiplied by 120 minutes
Monthly Average Offloads >180 Minutes multiplied by 180 minutes.

The total number of minutes is then divided by 60 to determine the Lowest Estimated Monthly Hours of Delay. This is the most conservative estimate of the total hours of delay. This number can be multiplied by the LEMSA's ambulance unit/hour utilization rate to determine the cost to the prehospital setting (or Local EMS System) because of offload delays. A short survey with minimal LEMSA response/participation back in 2019 determined the average was roughly 155/hr.

*The Lowest Estimated Monthly Hours of Delay (20 Minutes or Greater) is calculated by multiplying the monthly average offload in each time interval (excluding <20 Minutes) by the lowest minute threshold of each interval.

The Sum of:
Monthly Average Offloads 20-60 Minutes multiplied by 20 minutes
Monthly Average Offloads 60-120 Minutes multiplied by 60 minutes
Monthly Average Offloads 120-180 Minutes multiplied by 120 minutes
Monthly Average Offloads >180 Minutes multiplied by 180 minutes.

The total number of minutes is then divided by 60 to determine the Lowest Estimated Monthly Hours of Delay. This is the most conservative estimate of the total hours of delay. This number can be multiplied by the LEMSA's ambulance unit/hour utilization rate to determine the cost to the prehospital setting (or Local EMS System) because of offload delays. A short survey with minimal LEMSA response/participation back in 2019 determined the average was roughly 155/hr.
