California Emergency Medical Services Authority

ABA Verified and LEMSA Designated Burn Centers

Updated 12/2/2025

Disclosure: The California Emergency Medical Services Authority (EMSA) does not assign burn center designations. Rather, Local Emergency Medical Services Agencies (LEMSAs) report burn center levels to EMSA. In accordance with state regulations, a LEMSA may designate a burn center, or they may obtain verification through the American Burn Association (ABA). The ABA Verification Review Committee is responsible for verifying that a burn center meets the criteria established by the ABA to identify a burn center as Verified. Burn centers are categorized as adult, pediatric, or both.
